Artist in Exile: The Visual Diary of Baroness Hyde de Neuville

Self-taught and ahead of her time, Anne Margu rite Jos phine Henriette Rouill  de Marigny, Baroness Hyde de Neuville (1771–1849) was the first woman artist in America to leave a substantial body of work. Granted exile by Napoleon, she first made her mark in New York City and later Washington, D.C., and her art celebrates the people and scenes of the early American republic, documenting the young country’s history, culture, and diverse population.
